

SIGNS POINT TO A BIG OFFENSIVE ON WEST FRONT

Allied Forces Swing Into Action on Widely-Separated Sectors

BRITISH ADVANCE

In Holland the 2nd Army Strengthens Its Positions

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Oct. 2—Allied forces swung into action on widely-separated sectors of the western front today, with every sign pointing to early opening of a large-scale offensive.

The attacks were made in Holland, along the Moselle River and close to the approaches of the Belfort gap that leads into the Rhine-land.

(An NBC battlefront broadcast said that the United States First Army of Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges had launched its "big push" to the Rhine and is pouring through a new breach carved into the Siegfried Line in the Aachen area.)

The Paris radio reported a gigantic Allied artillery barrage all along the western front.

In Holland, troops of Lieut. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's Second Army slashing north and east from their corridor strengthened their positions in the Eindhoven-Nijmegen area.

The British cleared the Germans from the banks of the River Maas west of Nijmegen and stood firm against Nazi counterattacks from the northeast aimed at recapture of the vital Nijmegen bridge.

These British forces drove north of the town of Oss, 15 miles from Nijmegen and widened the base of their salient.

A spokesman for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower broadcast a warning to inhabitants of islands in the Scheldt estuary to leave their homes and proceed inland.

PATTON FORCES SMASH AT WEHRMACHT

With the American Third Army—American Third Army forces of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., smashed solid body punches at the Wehrmacht today, seizing the city of Grevenmacher, one of the chief centers on the Luxembourg Moselle border.

Other solid blows launched by Third Army forces thrust American lines two and a half miles deeper through the thick Parroy Forest and drove German defenders from the heights dominating low ground 14 miles northeast of Nancy.

Yank units destroyed 19 German tanks in the struggle for the heights above Nancy, and took 220 prisoners in the successful action.

HEAVY FIGHTING ON ITALIAN FRONT

Rome—Heavy fighting raged on the American Fifth Army sector of the Italian front as Nazi Marshal Kesselring hurled continued desperate counterattacks against Yank forces driving through the shattered Gothic line for Imola.

The American drive threatens to flank and envelope German forces facing the British Eighth Army on the Adriatic flank of the Italian front. Particularly fierce fighting blazed about strategic Mount Battaglia as American troops drove back German counter-assaults in strength.

On the British sector of the Italian front, Eighth Army troops crossed and recrossed the Fimicino river in heavy fighting.

In the air, light and fighter bombers of the Mediterranean Air Force smashed strong blows at Nazi shipping attempting to move supplies along the Adriatic coast.

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

The rabid dog killed at Sellersville last week after biting other dogs, has been traced to a Lansdale owner.

Mrs. Harry Burmeister, Tabor Home, near Doylestown, has received word her brother, Sgt. William Warner, aged 28, was wounded in France, Sept. 19.

Warner, who has been in the service several years, took part in the invasion of France in June, and at the time he was wounded he was near the German border, from which place he was taken by plane to a hospital in England, where he underwent an operation.

Sgt. Warner, who wrote his sister a letter on Sept. 15, informed her he had suffered wounds of the foot and leg, and that he might have to remain in the hospital several months.

Before entering the service, Sgt. Warner was engaged in the hauling business with his brothers here.

He writes that he was in France at one time, but is still based at the same place. He flew overseas with a squadron of 39 planes. They flew the "Great Circle" via New Foundland, Iceland and Scotland.

Another son, Cpl. Frank C. Kooker is with Anti-Aircraft Artillery in the South Pacific. He recently reported he had a furlough in Australia.

Marsten Slack, New Hope, suffered an eye injury last Saturday while at work in Eastern Aircraft, Trenton, N. J.

National Farm School Wants Fund of $1,000,000

NATIONAL FARM SCHOOL, Oct. 2—A $1,000,000 campaign to be raised by 1946 for postwar expansion of the National Farm School, near Doylestown, was revealed yesterday at the 47th annual meeting and harvest festival held at the school.

Dr. Louis Nusbaum, school president, announced in his annual report that part of the fund would be used to expand the work of the school to the grade of a junior agricultural college, part to provide agricultural education for girls, and part to erect another new classroom building.

Other portions of the fund would be used for the rehabilitation of existing properties and for school maintenance. The fund is to be raised by 1946, the golden anniversary of the institution.

Dr. Alexander J. Stoddard, superintendent of Philadelphia public schools, warned against repeating the shortcomings of the last post-war period.

"The assumption that peace comes after war is silly," he declared. "Peace is an accomplishment that has to be built and won; it must be man-made, purchased with money, blood and tears."

Visiting clubs represented included Doylestown, Lansdale, Allentown, Sellersville, Souderton, Telford, Ambler, Old York Road, Glenside, Chester, Chester Pike, Main Line, Olney, Yeadon, Phoenixville, Pottstown, Reading, Pittsburgh, Bethlehem, Norristown, Philadelphia and Lambertville.

FARM HOUSE AT ST. ELIZABETH'S CONVENT, CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, DAMAGED BY FLAMES

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Oct. 2—Cornwells Fire Co. and Union Fire Co. were summoned last evening at 10:45 to extinguish a fire at the home of Frank Cook, farm manager at St. Elizabeth's Convent, here.

Excellent work of the firemen is credited by school officials with saving the property and preventing spread of the flames. A supply of water was secured from a well in the orchard near the Cook home, and additional water was pumped from tank trucks.

The blaze was discovered by Donald Abe, whose brother is an employee at the property. Abe first noticed the blaze reflected on windows, and investigating saw flames issuing from the roof of the Cook home. The residence is frame and is attached to the pebble-dashed guest house on the property.

The flames were confined to the upper floor and roof, and are believed to have started from a defective chimney, a fire having been started in the main heater. Some water damage resulted in the house.

Former Emilie Resident Is Wed at Trenton, N. J.

A pretty early autumn wedding took place on Saturday afternoon in Westminster Presbyterian Church, Trenton, N. J., at two o'clock when a former resident of Emilie, Miss Norma Mae Blinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Y. Blinn, Trenton, N. J., became the bride of Mr. Joseph V. Servis, Trenton, N. J.

POSED AS FATHER OF 2 SONS WHO LOST LIVES IN THE WAR

Langhorne Druggist Gave Names To Be Posted On Honor Roll

NOW DENIES IT IS TRUE

Earl L. Potts To Face Additional Charge Before Justice of Peace

More and more involved becomes the situation in which a Langhorne pharmacist finds himself as the authorities continue to probe into his affairs.

Earl L. Potts, 45, manager of the United Cut Rate Drug store, "Bellevue" avenue, Langhorne, and who Friday evening was held in $3,000 bail on 18 counts of "fraudulent conversion" will face another charge when he appears before a Justice of peace to answer to the charge of "larceny by employee."

Then in addition to the above Potts is alleged to have posed as the father of two sons killed in action in the present war, when, according to authorities such is not true. The names of the two boys are posted upon the Honor Roll of Jesse W. Soby Post, American Legion of Langhorne, as having paid the supreme sacrifice.

Potts was originally arrested Friday and charged with "fraudulent conversion" because it was alleged that he had appropriated to his own use $1400 belonging to the Philadelphia Electric Company and $1200 belonging to the Bell Telephone Company. Potts came into possession of the moneys through collecting bills for the two utilities at the Langhorne store, he being bonded as well as the owners of the store to act as the collecting agency.

He collected the money, it is contended by investigators, and then "so juggled" the bills that he could keep the money he collected.

Potts is well known in Langhorne because of his position at the drug store where he daily contacted a large number of persons, and because of the fact he was supposed to have been the father of two sons who had lost their lives in World War II.

The names of three sons of Potts are enrolled on the Honor Roll of Soby Post. The names in the order of their appearance on the roll are: "Earl W. Potts," "Jimmie E. Potts," and "Heister Potts." The first two names appear upon gold plates showing that they lost their lives. It is these which are contended to be fictitious and which according to Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo have been admitted as being figments of imagination by Potts.

Heister is really in the service being in the Navy, it is understood, and having been wounded in the invasion of France.

Another son, Jack, is expected to soon join the service.

Potts has not given a reason for posing as the father of two sons supposed to have paid the supreme sacrifice, but it is presumed that he did so in an effort to create a favorable impression in the community and to capitalize upon the honor naturally falling to such a parent.

"Earl" and "Jimmie" were supposed to have lost their lives in Continued on Page Four

NO MAN IS INDISPENSABLE

History has taught the world that there is no such thing as the indispensable man. Indeed—as Governor Dewey and Governor Bricker are pointed out day by day—the United States was built on the opposite theory. The men who fought to make this country free, and who wrote the Constitution, founded a government of checks and balances.

Yet, in 1944 the Democratic party is deliberately making this the prime issue, as Senator Truman, the Democratic Vice Presidential nominee, did recently at Detroit. Senator Truman called President Roosevelt not only indispensable to the United States, but to the world. "The very future of the peace and prosperity of the world," said Truman, "depends upon his re-election in November." The Roosevelt-Truman philosophy on the very face of it is alien to the American system of government.

Governor Dewey places the matter on a high plane in his discussions. He points out that the peace which the world seeks "must not hang by the slender thread of personal acquaintance of any two or three men. I want to see a people's peace come at the end of this war. I want to see a peace which has been worked out in the full light of day before all the world."

The Republican Presidential nominee was even more effective when he discussed the domestic picture as it related to the Democratic theme of indispensability, particularly when he raised the point of the working relationship between the President and Congress.

In Mr. Dewey's words, one of the essentials to peace and prosperity is "joint, harmonious action between the President and Congress. Is a fourth term indispensable to that?"

CASHING THE BONDS

On the heels of the announcement that war bonds are to be cashed at any bank by the simple expedient of the holder endorsing them and presenting them to the paying teller and being identified, the Treasury is trying to emphasize the point that this is not to encourage the cashing of the bonds. Its position remains unchanged—that the bonds should be held until maturity except in cases of emergency.

That the pressure of sales may not be long in coming, however, is indicated by the fact that American corporations now have $43,000,000,000 of net working capital, nearly half of it in war bonds. These government securities held by corporations represent most of the working capital gains during the war.

If extensive retooling or plant expansion is undertaken by the corporations during the reconversion period, they will cash in huge amounts of bonds. Thus selling pressure may be put upon the government bond market before the war and its consequences have been completely financed. This is one of the possibilities the Treasury will be compelled to consider in devising its fiscal policies for the future.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Nov. 1, 1883. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

The robbery of Nathan Tyler's clothing store is another call for night police. A still stronger reason for them can be found by any one who will walk the length of Radcliffe street after dark. A gang of young rowdies is usually to be found at the corner of Franklin street, at Dorrance street, and again at Jefferson avenue. They amuse themselves and annoy passers-by—particularly women—by personal remarks, sometimes insulting, sometimes not, just as it happens, and when their mouths are not employed this way, they find occupation by spitting tobacco juice all over the pavement.

Wild ducks are numerous on the Delaware.

Mr. Benjamin Lovett has moved into the residence attached to the bank, made vacant by the removal of Mrs. Iredell and family to their house at the end of Radcliffe street on the sylvan shores of the Hollow creek.

A boat race on the river from Hellings' wharf to Mill street wharf, was rowed last Saturday by Henry Hibbs and George Popperwell. Hibbs was the victor.

Potatoes, at the sale of Thomas Headly estate, brought only 27 cents per bushel.

The telephone does not work yet with perfect satisfaction between Bristol and Philadelphia.

The hostility mill of Mr. Samuel Appleton is fast approaching completion.

On last Sunday morning the Rev. Dr. Knox announced that a Tuesday evening would be the tenth anniversary of his installation as pastor of the Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Knox and he would be glad to see socially in the lecture room of the church, on that evening at eight o'clock, all the members of the congregation and such of his friends not connected with the church as might desire to come. The lecture room was closely packed.

(Following items culled from Bucks County Gazette issue of Nov. 8, 1883.)

Names of the pupils of Laurel Bend school, Bristol Township, who attended every day during the month ending October 31st: John Smith, George H. Watson, Charlie C. Watson, Howard S. Brown, Milton W. Hanhorn, Anna M. Watson, Sallie A. Watson, Florence LaRue, (Mame E. Wright, teacher).

The milk business must be prosperous as several of our milkmen have new wagons.

Among other improvements in town was the removal by the Presbyterians of some old dilapidated buildings in the rear of their church, opening up a nice lot fronting on Cedar street. Now would it not be well for them to have a nice row of shedding built for the accommodation of horses and carriages belonging to persons attending church. There is ample room on the lot for such an improvement. A gateway on Cedar street would afford a nice approach to the church and convenient to the sheds, where the horses could be sheltered in summer or winter much better than in the street, and less liable to accident.

We are pleased to learn that Col. Russell H. Conwell is to deliver the first lecture of the course in the Baptist Church on Thursday evening, 15th of November. He is said to be one of the most pleasing, eloquent, instructive and at the same time entertaining lecturers upon the American platform. He is possessed of an extended reputation, has lectured extensively in this country and in England, and the universal testimony of the press on both sides of the ocean shows that his popularity is well merited.

Again we have a call for night police. On Friday night last, the residence of Joseph DeB. Keim was entered by burglars, who took, however, nothing but some cat-

Almighty God, our heavenly Father, we know that without the help of thy gracious Spirit our service will be fruitless. There are stains upon our garments and we need thy cleansing. Doubts are clouding our minds and we need the spirit of faith. Temptations are calling our souls and we need the word of power. We pray that Thy Holy Spirit may lead us where we need to be, so that we may obtain forgiveness and freedom. Be with the broken in heart. Have mercy upon the prodigal. Give cheer to the saddened. Keep us this day in Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

BRISTOL HIGH ELEVEN DEFEATS GEORGE SCHOOL IN FIRST HOME GAME OF SEASON; SCORE, 13 TO 0

Unleashing an attack which swept the visitors off their feet from the beginning until the end of the game, the Bristol High grid-sters defeated George School, here, Saturday afternoon, by the score of 13-0.

But the score does not truly indicate the course of the game for the Bunnies pushed their foes all over the gridiron, making 12 first downs while holding their opponents to two. Only penalties prevented Coach Harold Stackhouse's boys from amassing several other six-pointers.

Not only did the locals show power in rushing the ball but their interference and aerial attack had the George School representatives baffled. Twenty-four times the Bunnies took to the air and 12 passes were completed for a total yardage of 114. In rushing the ball, Bristol gained 121 yards but lost six as the result of penalties. Only one of the local passes were intercepted.

Most of the game, George School was deep in its own territory and each time it had possession of the ball was forced to kick with not much opportunity to run the pigskin. On several occasions, the play-caller for the invaders attempted forward passes while still within the shadow of his own goal posts. The second half was played with the ball practically within the George School thirty-yard line.

As a whole, the Bristol team exhibited a brand of co-ordination that hasn't been seen here for quite some time. The interference given to the runners, passers, and kickers, stood out to make it a perfect day. The local backs booted the ball for a total of 260 yards and ran back kicks for 28 yards.

Although each back had his share of duty to perform, Joe McDevitt had a busy afternoon. McDevitt did all of the passing and most of his pitching was done to the colored Howard Keyes. Keyes also ran the ball on several plays and gained plenty of yardage.

The only blot of the afternoon was the injury sustained by John Parell. Coach Stackhouse did not use Parell as a starter because he was slightly injured against Trenton Catholic. But, occasionally, he was sent into the game for a play or two, mostly to carry instructions from Coach Stackhouse, and then replaced. In the final period, when Fiorelli was injured after clipping off fifteen yards to put the ball in scoring position, Parell was sent in. On a pass, Parell put the ball on the four-yard line but was injured again and had to be removed.

It wasn't until the second quarter that Bristol scored its first touchdown of the game and season. Following an exchange of punts, Bristol received the ball on George School's 40. A first down and a pass to Keyes gained 25 yards but Bristol lost the ball on downs on the 10-yard line. Mason kicked for George School but it only travelled to the Bristol 28 because of the wind. Parell found an opening through tackle and when dropped was on the 13-yard line. Andecine broke through and stopped McDevitt in his tracks on the next play.

A pass, McDevitt to Keyes, netted 8 yards and a first down on the visitors' 5. Parell and Oriola brought the ball to the three-yard line but Bristol was penalized five yards. A pass failed but McDevitt rifled a second one to Keyes who was over the goal line when he caught it. Keyes' attempt at the extra point, a place-kick, failed.

Bristol threatened in the third period when a pass, McDevitt to Fiorelli, netted 30 yards and put the ball on the G. S. 40. Fiorelli on a double-reverse tip-toed 15 yards to put the ball on the 25. McDevitt faked a reverse and then heaved a pass to Keyes to make it first down on the 4-yard line. A penalty set back Bristol 5 yards and a reverse failed. George School held on the next two plays, getting possession of the ball on its 13.

As the fourth quarter started, George School was forced to kick the ball going to its 35. McDevitt tossed a short pass to Favorosa who was over the goal line. The extra point was converted on a pass, McDevitt to Oriola.

Lineup: Bristol (13) (6) George School

Score by quarters: Bristol 0 6 0 7—13; George S. 0 0 0 0—0. Touchdowns: Keyes, Favorosa. Point after touchdown: Oriola. St. Louis Captures The Honors in American League

By John Cashman (I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—The first American League flag in the 43-year history of the St. Louis Browns is safely tucked away under the belts of Luke Sewell's men today after a campaign which, for suspense and bitter wrangling, is unequalled by anything ever seen in the major leagues.

The cup brimmed over for the underprivileged Browns yesterday when they belted the New York Yankees, 5 to 2, while the Detroit Tigers crumbled under the pressure of the first-place deadlock to fall victim to the last-place Washington Senators, 4 to 1. The largest crowd ever to see a Browns club in action, 37,815, filled St. Louis with a din not equalled even in any World Series triumph scored by the Brownies' opponents in the championship games starting next Wednesday—the rugged and adept St. Louis Cardinals.

the submarine service and both were supposed to have been pharmacists mates, according to Frank Cassidy, who has charge of the Soby Post Honor Roll.

Mr. Cassidy when interviewed Saturday night was perplexed about the whole thing. At the time he was unaware of the arrest of Potts except for the fact that his children had informed him that the Bristol Courier had a story about the affair.

Cassidy was reluctant to believe that the names of the sons of Potts enrolled as having lost their lives was not true. Cassidy stated that the names were so recorded upon information given by Potts and of course it was not questioned and no further proof was required.

Cassidy said that often time he would think about Potts having lost two sons with another wounded and still another likely to go into the service at any time, and would think what that father was giving for his country.

"You see how a person having my job of having charge of the honor roll can be put on the spot," said Cassidy. "When a man tells you he has lost two sons in the service you naturally take his word and do not ask for further proof," he said.

Potts is a member of the Soby Post and while not a frequenter of the Post Home he often talked with Legionnaires and discussed his sons supposed to have lost their lives in the submarine service, it is said.

Potts will face the additional charge of "larceny by employee" because of having admitted taking money and merchandise from the owners of the store, it is said. In a statement given Detective Russo it is said to have been admitted by Potts that he paid girl assistants at the store $12 for work for which they were supposed to be paid $7 and that he took merchandise from the store for his own use during the time of his employment there.

To buy, to sell, or to exchange—the classified column of the Courier will bring the desired results.

Rev. Henry I. Aulenbach, of Allentown, and Past International Kiwanis President A. Copeland Callen, of Bethlehem.

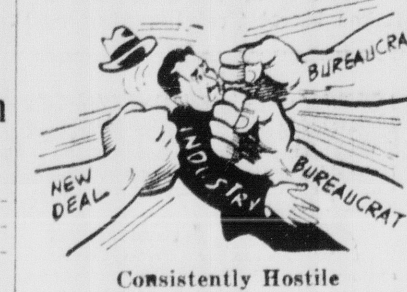

District Governor-elect Ray Gaul, of Reading, assured those present that "Kiwanis is in the march" in no uncertain manner. He expressed the hope that the 1945 Kiwanis year will culminate in victory throughout the world.

Entertainment was furnished by the Metropolitan Male Quartet, Philadelphia.

District Governor R. Warren Graffman, of Pittsburgh, announced the largest Kiwanis membership in "The present Administration has never solved the fundamental problem of jobs and opportunity. It can never solve this problem. It has never even understood what makes a job. It has been consistently hostile to and abusive of American business and American industry, although it is in business and industry that most of us make our living.

"In all the record of the past eleven years is there anything that suggests the present Administration can bring about high-level employment after this war? Is there any reason to believe that those who have so signally failed in the past can succeed in the future? The problem of jobs will not be easily solved; but it will never be solved at all unless we get a new, progressive administration in Washington—and that means a Republican Administration."

the history of the Pennsylvania District, a total of 8018. He reviewed the work of Kiwanis in the state during the past year and told of the big strides made in juvenile delinquency work, underprivileged child work, Boy and Girl Scouts, war fund drives, community chest projects and hundreds of projects connected with the war effort.

Governor Graffman stressed the importance of greater service for the armed forces, the importance of playing a leading part in getting jobs for the returning veterans, and stressed the importance of post-war planning projects, emphasized first the building of recreational and athletic fields and hospital improvement.

A petition, containing the signatures of a number of residents had been presented to Council at that time in behalf of George Frank, and at Monday's meeting a similar petition was presented to council, asking that the area be retained as a residential area. About 70 per cent of the property owners protested a change by signing the petition which asked that the district remain the same. SIGNS POINT TO A BIG OFFENSIVE ON WEST FRONT

BRITISH ADVANCE

In Holland the 2nd Army Strengthens Its Positions

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Oct. 2.—Allied forces swung into action on widely-separated sectors of the western front today, with every sign pointing to early opening of a large-scale offensive.

The attacks were made in Holland, along the Moselle River and close to the approaches of the Belfort gap that leads into the Rhineland.

(An NBC battlefront broadcast said that the United States First Army of Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges had launched its "big push" to the Rhine and is pouring through a new breach carved into the Siegfried Line in the Aachen area.)

The Paris radio reported a gigantic Allied artillery barrage all along the western front.

In Holland, troops of Lieut. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's Second Army slashing north and east from their corridor strengthened their positions in the Eindhoven-Nijmegen area.

The British cleared the Germans from the banks of the River Maas west of Nijmegen and stood firm against Nazi counterattacks from the northeast aimed at recapture of the vital Nijmegen bridge.

These British forces drove north of the town of Oss, 15 miles from Nijmegen and widened the base of their salient.

A spokesman for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower broadcast a warning to inhabitants of islands in the Scheldt estuary to leave their homes and proceed inland.

PATTON FORCES SMASH AT WEHRMACHT

With the American Third Army—American Third Army forces of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., smashed solid body punches at the Wehrmacht today, seizing the city of Grevenmacher, one of the chief centers on the Luxembourg-Moselle border.

Other solid blows launched by Third Army forces thrust American lines two and a half miles deeper through the thick Parroy Forest and drove German defenders from the heights dominating low ground 14 miles northeast of Nancy.

Yank units destroyed 19 German tanks in the struggle for the heights above Nancy, and took 220 prisoners in the successful action.

HEAVY FIGHTING ON ITALIAN FRONT

Rome—Heavy fighting raged on the American Fifth Army sector of the Italian front as Nazi Marshal Kesselring hurled continued desperate counterattacks against Yank forces driving through the shattered Gothic line for Imola.

The American drive threatens to flank and envelope German forces facing the British Eighth Army on the Adriatic flank of the Italian front. Particularly fierce fighting blazed about strategic Mount Battaglia as American troops drove back German counter-assaults in strength.

On the British sector of the Italian front, Eighth Army troops crossed and recrossed the Fiumicino river in heavy fighting.

In the air, light and fighter bombers of the Mediterranean Air Force smashed strong blows at Nazi shipping attempting to move supplies along the Adriatic coast.

Mrs. Harry Burnmeister, Tabor Home, near Doylestown, has received word her brother, Sgt. William Warner, aged 28, was wounded in France, Sept. 10.

Warner, who has been in the service several years, took part in the invasion of France in June, and at the time he was wounded he was near the German border, from which place he was taken by plane to a hospital in England, where he underwent an operation.

Sgt. Warner, who wrote his sister a letter on Sept. 15, informed her he had suffered wounds of the foot and leg, and that he might have to remain in the hospital several months.

Before entering the service, Sgt. Warner was engaged in the hauling business with his brothers here.

$2000 TO CO. W. C. T. U.

Two Bucks County men and a Bucks Co. temperance organization are to benefit through the will of a late Hatboro woman, Viola Marple, who died at Newark, N. J., last month.

The estate is valued at tentatively $15,000.

National Farm School Wants Fund of $1,000,000

NATIONAL FARM SCHOOL, Oct. 2.—A $1,000,000 campaign to be raised by 1946 for postwar expansion of the National Farm School, near Doylestown, was revealed yesterday at the 47th annual meeting and harvest festival held at the school.

Dr. Louis Nussbaum, school president, announced in his annual report that part of the fund would be used to expand the work of the school to the grade of a junior agricultural college, part to provide agricultural education for girls, and part to erect another new classroom building.

Other portions of the fund would be used for the rehabilitation of existing properties and for school maintenance. The fund is to be raised by 1946, the golden anniversary of the institution.

Dr. Alexander J. Stoddard, superintendent of Philadelphia public schools, warned against repeating the shortcomings of the last post-war period.

"The assumption that peace comes after war is silly," he declared. "Peace is an accomplishment that has to be built and won; it must be man-made, purchased with money, blood and tears."

On behalf of two other Quakertown service clubs—Rotary and Lions—J. Harry Brett, president of Rotary, speaking for both clubs, presented the Kiwanis Club with a basket of flowers as an expression of friendship that has always existed between the three clubs. Henry Hoffman represented the Lions Club, as its president.

Other Kiwanis leaders called upon included the Lt. Governor, Dr. Walter W. Eshelman, of Division 12; Lt. Governor Lester Armistead, Division 14; Frank L. FARM HOUSE AT ST. ELIZABETH'S CONVENT, CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, DAMAGED BY FLAMES

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Oct. 2.—Cornwells Fire Co. and Union Fire Co. were summoned last evening at 10:45 to extinguish a fire at the home of Frank Cook, farm manager at St. Elizabeth's Convent, here.

Excellent work of the firemen is credited by school officials with saving the property and preventing spread of the flames. A supply of water was secured from a well in the orchard near the Cook home, and additional water was pumped from tank trucks.

The blaze was discovered by Donald Abe, whose brother is an employee at the property. Abe first noticed the blaze reflected on windows, and investigating saw flames issuing from the roof of the Cook home. The residence is frame and is attached to the pebble-dashed guest house on the property.

The flames were confined to the upper floor and roof, and are believed to have started from a defective chimney, a fire having been started in the main heater. Some water damage resulted in the house.

CHALFONT MAN GETS SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Houghton Made No Profit On Liquor He Took

FACES MORE CHARGES

NORRISTOWN, Oct. 2.—William Houghton, 41, of Chalfont R. D. 1, Bucks county, former U. S. Secret Service man and for the last ten years attached to the Alcohol Tax Unit of the Federal Bureau of Internal Revenue, was given a one year's suspended sentence and directed to pay a fine of $150 and costs in the Montgomery county courts by Judge George C. Corson.

The Bucks countian entered a plea of guilty to charges of larceny and violation of the State Liquor Control Act.

Houghton, also indicted in the Bucks county court at Doylestown, charged with possession of untaxed liquor, also faces charges in the U. S. District Court, in addition to his arraignment here.

Employed as U. S. storekeeper and gauger at the Kinsey Distillery, Linfield, since June 21, 1941, Houghton was arrested last August, charged with the theft of a quantity of bonded liquor which he admitted taking from the government bonded warehouse which it was his duty to guard and protect.

Houghton told the court that in all he took about 10 gallons. He denied that he took any of it to sell and said he made no profit from the transactions.

Houghton told a straightforward story from the start, voluntarily admitting his illicit operations from the time of his arrest. He did so again and seemed more concerned over the disgrace he has brought upon himself and his family and the fact that he has lost caste as a trusted government employee than any further punishment that may be coming to him.

Attorney Desmond J. McTigue made a strong plea to the Court to impose a fine rather than a jail sentence on Houghton, and at its conclusion Assistant District Attorney David E. Groshens told Judge Corson: "I'll go along with that suggestion, as he is still facing indictment in Bucks county, and if the Federal Court feels a jail sentence should be imposed for disloyalty on the part of a government employee, that is up to them."

Former Emilie Resident Is Wed at Trenton, N. J.

A pretty early autumn wedding took place on Saturday afternoon in Westminster Presbyterian Church, Trenton, N. J., at two o'clock when a former resident of Emilie, Miss Norma Mae Blinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Y. Blinn, Trenton, N. J., became the bride of Mr. Joseph V. Servis, Trenton, N. J.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Booz amid a setting of white gladioli, with Mrs. Pettit, organist of the church, at the console. Lohengrin's wedding march was played for the processional and Mendelssohn's for the recessional. The solos, rendered by Miss "Betty" Johnson, were "Ave Maria," "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride was costumed in white mousseline-de-soie, floor length, with high neckline, bishop sleeves, and wore a finger tip veil with taria of orange blossoms. White kid slippers were worn and she carried a white prayer book topped by a lavender orchid and having a shower of white gladioli.

Miss Dorothy S. Blinn, sister of the bride, was her attendant. She wore a floor length costume of blue mousseline-de-soie with taffeta bodice; finger tip veil with halo head-dress, gold slippers, and carried a colonial bouquet.

Mr. John Johnson, Trenton, N. J., brother-in-law of the groom, served as best man; while the ushers were Mr. John Huff, Trenton, N. J., and Mr. Louis V. Townsend, Jr., Bristol, a cousin of the bride.

Supper was served at 3:30 o'clock at the Corner House, West State street, Trenton, with covers placed for 35. A reception was held in the evening at the home of the bride, with 75 guests attending.

Mr. and Mrs. Servis left for a week's honeymoon trip to New York, and the New Jersey coast. The bride travelled in a costume of aqua crepe with black accessories, scarlet coat, and wore an orchid corsage. Upon their return the newlyweds will reside in an apartment at 54 Carroll street, Trenton, N. J.

The bride's gift to her attendant was a string of matched pearls. The groom's gift to the best man was a leather wallet, and sterling silver tie clasps to the ushers.

WILLIAM K. FINE, 77, DIES; ILL LONG TIME

Had Served Four Years As Treasurer of Bucks Co.; Former Councilman

FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

A former treasurer of Bucks County and former member of Bristol borough council died last evening in the person of William K. Fine, who passed away at his home, 255 Wood street, following a lengthy illness.

Mr. Fine who was 77 years of age, had retired 25 years ago from the bottling business.

The deceased had served as treasurer of Bucks County from 1912 until 1916, and was a member of Bristol borough council for 13 years, concluding such service several years ago.

He was a member of Bristol Lodge, No. 970, B. P. O. Elks; and of Bristol Fire Co., No. 1.

His wife, Nellie K. Fine (nee Cooper), and the following daughters and sons survive: Mrs. Mulford Callanan, the Misses Helen and Jessie Fine, Mrs. Harold Lake, Mrs. Mary Hoffman, and James and William Fine, the latter residing in Canada. A brother, Dr. Walter E. Fine, of Ambler; and six grandchildren, also survive.

The Rev. George E. Boswell, rector of St. James' Episcopal Church, will conduct the service on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock at the late home of the deceased. Burial will be in Bristol Cemetery, with Robert C. Ruel, funeral director, in charge. Friends may call Tuesday evening. Members of Bristol Lodge of Elks will conduct a service on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock at the Fine home.

NO MAN IS INDISPENSABLE

History has taught the world that there is no such thing as the indispensable man. Indeed—as Governor Dewey and Governor Bricker are pointed out day by day—the United States was built on the opposite theory. The men who fought to make this country free, and who wrote the Constitution, founded a government of checks and balances.

Yet, in 1944 the Democratic party is deliberately making this the prime issue, as Senator Truman, the Democratic Vice Presidential nominee, did recently at Detroit. Senator Truman called President Roosevelt not only indispensable to the United States, but to the world. "The very future of the peace and prosperity of the world," said Truman, "depends upon his re-election in November." The Roosevelt-Truman philosophy on the very face of it is alien to the American system of government.

Governor Dewey places the matter on a high plane in his discussions. He points out that the peace which the world seeks "must not hang by the slender thread of personal acquaintance of any two or three men. I want to see a people's peace come at the end of this war. I want to see a peace which has been worked out in the full light of day before all the world."

The Republican Presidential nominee was even more effective when he discussed the domestic picture as it related to the Democratic theme of indispensability, particularly when he raised the point of the working relationship between the President and Congress.

In Mr. Dewey's words, one of the essentials to peace and prosperity is "joint, harmonious action between the President and Congress. Is a fourth term indispensable to that?"

CASHING THE BONDS

On the heels of the announcement that war bonds are to be cashed at any bank by the simple expedient of the holder endorsing them and presenting them to the paying teller and being identified, the Treasury is trying to emphasize the point that this is not to encourage the cashing of the bonds. Its position remains unchanged—that the bonds should be held until maturity except in cases of emergency.

That the pressure of sales may not be long in coming, however, is indicated by the fact that American corporations now have $43,000,000,000 of net working capital, nearly half of it in war bonds. These government securities held by corporations represent most of the working capital gains during the war.

If extensive retooling or plant expansion is undertaken by the corporations during the reconversion period, they will cash in huge amounts of bonds. Thus selling pressure may be put upon the government bond market before the war and its consequences have been completely financed. This is one of the possibilities the Treasury will be compelled to consider in devising its fiscal policies for the future.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Nov. 1, 1883. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

The robbery of Nathan Tyler's clothing store is another call for night police. A still stronger reason for them can be found by any one who will walk the length of Radcliffe street after dark. A gang of young rowdies is usually to be found at the corner of Franklin street, at Dorrance street, and again at Jefferson avenue. They amuse themselves and annoy passers-by—particularly women—by personal remarks, sometimes insulting, sometimes not, just as it happens, and when their mouths are not employed this way, they find occupation by squirting tobacco juice all over the pavement.

Wild ducks are numerous on the Delaware.

Mr. Benjamin Lovett has moved into the residence attached to the bank made vacant by the removal of Mrs. Fredell and family to their house at the end of Radcliffe street on the sylvan shores of the Hollow creek.

A boat race on the river from Hellings' wharf to Mill street wharf, was rowed last Saturday by Henry Hibbs and George Popperwell. Hibbs was the victor.

Potatoes, at the sale of Thomas Heady estate, brought only 27 cents per bushel.

The telephone does not work yet with perfect satisfaction between Bristol and Philadelphia.

The hostery mill of Mr. Samuel Appleton is fast approaching completion.

On last Sunday morning the Rev. Dr. Knox announced that as Tuesday evening would be the tenth anniversary of his installation as pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Knox and he would be glad to see socially in the lecture room of the church, on that evening at eight o'clock, all the members of the congregation and such of his friends not connected with the church as might desire to come. The lecture room was closely packed.

(Following items culled from Bucks County Gazette issue of Nov. 8, 1883.)

Names of the pupils of Laurel Bend school, Bristol Township, who attended every day during the month ending October 31st: John Smith, George H. Watson, Charlie C. Watson, Howard S. Brown, Milton W. Hanford, Anna M. Watson, Sallie A. Watson, Florence LaRue, (Mame E. Wright, teacher).

The milk business must be prosperous as several of our milkmen have new wagons.

Among other improvements in town was the removal by the Presbyterians of some old dilapidated buildings in the rear of their church, opening up a nice lot fronting on Cedar street. Now would it not be well for them to have a nice row of shedding built for the accommodation of horses and carriages belonging to persons attending church. There is ample room on the lot for such an improvement. A gateway on Cedar street would afford a nice approach to the church and convenient to the sheds, where the horses could be sheltered in summer or winter much better than in the street, and less liable to accident.

We are pleased to learn that Col. Russell H. Conwell is to deliver the first lecture of the course in the Baptist Church on Thursday evening, 15th of November. He is said to be one of the most pleasing, eloquent, instructive and at the same time entertaining lecturers upon the American platform. He is possessed of an extended reputation, has lectured extensively in this country and in England, and the universal testimony of the press on both sides of the ocean shows that his popularity is well merited.

Again we have a call for night police. On Friday night last, the residence of Joseph DeB. Keim was entered by burglars, who took, however, nothing but some cat-

Almighty God, our heavenly Father, we know that without the help of thy gracious Spirit our service will be fruitless. There are stains upon our garments and we need thy cleansing. Doubts are clouding our minds and we need the spirit of faith. Temptations are calling our souls and we need the word of power. We pray that Thy Holy Spirit may lead us where we need to be, so that we may obtain forgiveness and freedom. Be with the broken in heart. Have mercy upon the prodigal. Give cheer to the saddened. Keep us this day in Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

BRISTOL HIGH ELEVEN DEFEATS GEORGE SCHOOL IN FIRST HOME GAME OF SEASON; SCORE, 13 TO 0

Unleashing an attack which swept the visitors off their feet from the beginning until the end of the game, the Bristol High gridsters defeated George School, here, Saturday afternoon, by the score of 13-0.

But the score does not truly indicate the course of the game for the Bunnies pushed their foes all over the gridiron, making 12 first downs while holding their opponents to two. Only penalties prevented Coach Harold Stackhouse's boys from amassing several other six-pointers.

Not only did the locals show power in rushing the ball but their interference and aerial attack had the George School representatives baffled. Twenty-four times the Bunnies took to the air and 12 passes were completed for a total yardage of 114. In rushing the ball, Bristol gained 121 yards but lost six as the result of penalties. Only one of the local passes were intercepted.

Most of the game, George School was deep in its own territory and each time it had possession of the ball was forced to kick with not much opportunity to run the pigskin. On several occasions, the play-caller for the invaders attempted forward passes while still within the shadow of his own goal posts. The second half was played with the ball practically within the George School thirty-yard line.

As a whole, the Bristol team exhibited a brand of co-ordination that hasn't been seen here for quite some time. The interference given to the runners, passers, and kickers, stood out to make it a perfect day. The local backs booted the ball for a total of 200 yards and ran back kicks for 28 yards.

Although each back had his share of duty to perform, Joe McDevitt had a busy afternoon. McDevitt did all of the passing and most of his kicking was done by the colored Howard Keyes. Keyes also ran the ball on several plays and gained plenty of yardage.

The only blot of the afternoon was the injury sustained by John Parrell, Coach Stackhouse did not use Parrell as a starter because he was slightly injured against Trenton Catholic. But, occasionally, he was sent into the game for a play or two, mostly to carry instructions from Coach Stackhouse, and then replaced. In the final period, when Fiorelli was injured after clipping off fifteen yards to put the ball in scoring position, Parrell was sent in. On a pass, Parrell put the ball on the four-yard line but was injured again and had to be removed.

It wasn't until the second quarter that Bristol scored its first touchdown of the game and season. Following an exchange of punts, Bristol received the ball on George School's 40. A first down and a pass to Keyes gained 25 yards but Bristol lost the ball on downs on the 10-yard line. Mason kicked for George School but it only travelled to the Bristol 28 because of the wind. Parrell found an opening through tackle and when dropped was on the 13-yard line. Andecine broke through and stopped McDevitt in his tracks on the next play.

A pass, McDevitt to Keyes, netted 8 yards and a first down on the visitors' 5. Parrell and Oriola brought the ball to the three-yard line but Bristol was penalized five yards. A pass failed but McDevitt rifled a second one to Keyes who was over the goal line when he caught it. Keyes' attempt at the extra point, a place-kick, failed.

Bristol threatened in the third period when a pass, McDevitt to Fiorelli, netted 30 yards and put the ball on the G. S. 40. Fiorelli on a double-reverse tip-toed 15 yards to put the ball on the 25. McDevitt faked a reverse and then heaved a pass to Keyes to make it first down on the 4-yard line. A penalty set back Bristol 5 yards and a reverse failed. George School held on the next two plays, getting possession of the ball on its 13.

As the fourth quarter started, George School was forced to kick, the ball going to its 35. McDevitt passed to Keyes for 9 yards and then McDevitt hit the line for a first down. But a clipping penalty hurt and the Bunnies lost the ball on downs on the George School 11. The boys of Coach Prescomb went into the air and one of these was intercepted by McDevitt on the 35. A line play failed but Fiorelli got off on an end run and stepped out of bounds on the 4-yard line. Fiorelli was injured and replaced by Parrell.

McDevitt cracked the George School line for a touchdown but Bristol was off-sides and the touchdown nullified. Parrell caught a pass and was downed on the two-yard line. On third down, McDevitt tossed a short pass to Favosora who was over the goal line. The extra point was converted on a pass, McDevitt to Oriola.

St. Louis Captures The Honors in American League

By John Cashman
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The first American League flag in the 43 year history of the St. Louis Browns is safely tucked away under the belts of Luke Sewell's men today after a campaign which, for suspense and bitter wrangling, is unequalled by anything ever seen in the major leagues.

The cup brimmed over for the underprivileged Brownies yesterday when they belted the New York Yankees, 5 to 2, while the Detroit Tigers crumbled under the pressure of the first-place deadlock to fall victim to the last-place Washington Senators, 4 to 1. The largest crowd ever to see a Browns club in action, 37,815, filled St. Louis with a din not equalled even in any World Series triumph scored by the Brownies' opponents in the championship games starting next Wednesday—the rugged and adept St. Louis Cardinals.

the submarine service and both were supposed to have been pharmacists mates, according to Frank Cassidy, who has charge of the Soby Post Honor Roll.

Mr. Cassidy when interviewed Saturday night was perplexed about the whole thing. At the time he was unaware of the arrest of Potts except for the fact that his children had informed him that the Bristol Courier had a story about the affair.

Cassidy was reluctant to believe that the names of the sons of Potts enrolled as having lost their lives was not true. Cassidy stated that the names were so recorded upon information given by Potts and of course it was not questioned and no further proof was requested.

Cassidy said that often time he would think about Potts having lost two sons with another wounded and still another likely to go into the service at any time, and would think what that father was giving for his country.

"You see how a person having my job of having charge of the honor roll can be put on the spot," said Cassidy. "When a man tells you he has lost two sons in the service you naturally take his word and do not ask for further proof," he said.

Potts is a member of the Soby Post and while not a frequenter of the Post Home he often talked with Legionnaires and discussed his sons supposed to have lost their lives in the submarine service, it is said.

Potts will face the additional charge of "larceny by employee" because of having admitted taking money and merchandise from the owners of the store, it is said. In a statement given Detective Russo it is said to have been admitted by Potts that he paid girl assistants at the store $12 for work for which they were supposed to be paid $7 and that he took merchandise from the store for his own use during the time of his employment there.

To buy, to sell, or to exchange—the classified column of the Courier will bring the desired results.

District Governor-elect Ray Gaul, of Reading, assured those present that "Kiwanis is in the march" in no uncertain manner. He expressed the hope that the 1945 Kiwanis year will culminate in victory throughout the world.

Entertainment was furnished by the Metropolitan Male Quartet, Philadelphia.

District Governor R. Warren Graffam, of Pittsburgh, announced the largest Kiwanis membership in "The present Administration has never solved the fundamental problem of jobs and opportunity. It can never solve this problem. It has never even understood what makes a job. It has been consistently hostile to and abusive of American business and American industry, although it is in business and industry that most of us make our living.

"In all the record of the past eleven years is there anything that suggests the present Administration can bring about high-level employment after this war? Is there any reason to believe that those who have so signally failed in the past can succeed in the future? The problem of jobs will not be easily solved; but it will never be solved at all unless we get a new, progressive administration in Washington — and that means a Republican Administration."

"CALAMITY TOWN" by ELLERY QUEEN

CHAPTER THIRTY

On Saturday night, Nora invited Roberta Roberts and Judge Eli Martin to dinner to "talk things over" with the family. After dinner, they all went into the living room. Ludie had tightly flapped the blinds and lit a fire. They sat before it with the uncomfortable stiffness of people who know they should say something, but cannot think of what. There was no solace anywhere, not even in the friendly flames. It was impossible to relax—Nora was too much there.

"Mr. Smith, you haven't said much tonight," remarked Roberta Roberts at last.

Nora looked at Ellery beseechingly; but he avoided her eyes. "There hasn't been too much to say. However, as I see the problem, it's not intellectual, or emotional, but legal. Faith isn't going to acquit Jim, although it may bolster his spirits. Only facts can get him off—"

"And there aren't any!" interjected Nora.

"Nora, dearest," moaned Hermie. "Please! You heard what Dr. Willoughby said about getting upset."

"I know, Mother, I know," Nora glanced eagerly at Judge Martin, whose long fingers were bridged before his nose as he glowered at the fire. "How does it look, Uncle Eli?"

"I wouldn't want to deceive you, Nora," The old jurist shook his head. "It looks bad."

"You mean Jim hasn't a chance?" she asked.

"There always was a chance, Nora," said Roberta Roberts.

"Yes," sighed the Judge. "You can never tell about a jury."

"If there was only something we could do," said Hermie helplessly.

John F. burrowed more deeply into his smoking jacket.

"Oh, you people!" cried Lola Wright. "Moaning the blues! I'm sick of this sitting around, wringing our hands!"

"So am I," said Pat between her teeth.

"Patricia darling," cautioned Hermie, "I'm sure you'd better stay out of this discussion."

"Of course, Mommy," said Lola with a grimace. "Your baby! You'll never see Pat as anything but a long-legged kid."

Pat shrugged. Mr. Ellery Queen regarded her with suspicion. For Miss Patricia Wright had been acting peculiarly since Thursday. Too quiet. Over-thoughtful for a healthy extrovert. As if she were brewing something. . . . He started to say something to her, but lit a cigarette instead.

"Ellery, what do you think?" pleaded Nora.

"Let's face it," replied Ellery grimly. "Jim's in a hopeless position. You'd better prepare yourself. I've gone over the whole case. I've re-examined each incident a dozen times. And I haven't found a loophole."

Nora twisted violently in her chair and dropped her face on her arms.

Silence filled the room to bursting until Ellery said, "Miss Roberts, I want to know something."

"Yes, Mr. Smith?"

"Why have you taken such an extraordinary interest in this case—even to the point of sacrificing your job?"

"I happen to believe James Haight is innocent."

"In the face of all the evidence against him?"

Roberta got to her feet. "I'm not sure I like that," she said clearly. "What are you trying to infer?"

The others were frowning. "It seems too beautiful," declared Mr. Queen. "Too, too, far-fetched for a hard-boiled newspaper woman to sacrifice her job for a stranger who—all the facts indicate—is guilty as Cain. There's an excuse for Nora—she's in love with him, her husband. There's an excuse for the Wrights—they want their son-in-law cleared for the sake of their daughter and grandchild. But what's yours?"

"Miss Roberts," pressed Ellery in a hard voice, "what are you concealing?"

"I refuse to submit to this third degree."

"Sorry! But it's plain you do know something. What you know has forced you to come to Jim's defense. What is it?"

The newspaper woman gathered her gloves and silver-fox coat and bag. "There are times, Mr. Smith," she said, "when I dislike you very much. . . . No, please, Mrs. Wright. Don't bother." She went out with a quick step.

Mr. Queen stared at the space she had just vacated. "I thought," he said apologetically, "I might be able to startle it out of her."

"I think," said Judge Martin reflectively, "I'll have a heart-to-heart talk with her later."

Ellery shrugged. "Lola, you've concealed something, too."

Lola stared. Then she laughed. "You are in a Scotland Yard mood tonight, aren't you?"

"Don't you think the time has come," purred Mr. Queen, "to tell Judge Martin about your visit to the back door of Nora's house just before midnight New Year's Eve?"

"Lola!" gasped Hermie. "You were there?"

"Oh, it's nothing at all, Mother," responded Lola impatiently. "It hasn't a thing to do with the case. Of course, Judge, I'll tell you. But now how about the eminent Mr. Smith getting to work?"

"At what?" asked the so-called Mr. Smith.

"My dear, you know a lot more than you've let on!"

"Lola," protested Nora, in despair. "This wrangling—"

"Just a minute," interposed Judge Martin. "Smith, if you know anything at all, I want to put you on the stand!"

"If I thought going on the stand would help Judge," asserted Ellery, "I'd do it. But it won't. On the contrary, it would hurt—a lot. It would just about cement your client's conviction."

John F. spoke for the first time. "You mean you know Jim is guilty, young man?"

"I didn't say that," demurred Ellery. "But my testimony would make things look so black against him—it would establish clearly that no one but Jim could have poisoned that cocktail."

Just then, Chief Dakin arrived. "Sorry to bust in this way, folks," he said gruffly, "but this was one subpoena I had to serve myself, Mr. Smith."

"Subpoena? Me?" asked Ellery. "Yes, sir. Mr. Smith, you're summoned to appear in court Monday morning to testify for the People in the case of People Against James Haight."

"I got one, too," murmured Lola to Ellery Queen in the courtroom Monday morning.

"Got one what?"

"A summons to testify today for the People."

"Bradford's got something up his sleeve," murmured Defense Counsel Martin. "And what's J.C. doing in court?"

"Who?" Ellery looked about.

"J. C. Pettigrew, the real-estate man. There's Bradford whispering to him."

"Here's Newbold," said Judge Martin, hastily standing up. "Remember, Lola, just answer Carter's questions. Don't volunteer information," he whispered grimly as the bailiff shouted to the courtroom to rise.

J. C. Pettigrew sat down in the witness chair, swabbing his face with a blue polka-dot handkerchief. He testified that he's been a friend of the Wrights for many years—his daughter Carmel is Patricia Wright's best friend.

(Pat compresses her lips. Her "best friend" has not telephoned since January first.)

Q—I hand you this canceled check, Mr. Pettigrew. Do you recognize it?

A—Yes.

Q—Read what it says.

A—The date December 31, 1940. Then it says: Pay to the order of cash, one hundred dollars. Signed J. C. Pettigrew.

Q—Did you make out this check?

A—I did.

Q—To whom did you give this check, Mr. Pettigrew?

A—To Lola Wright.

Q—Tell us the circumstances of your giving Miss Lola Wright this check for a hundred dollars, please.

A—I was just cleaning up at my office in High Village when Lola came in. Said she was in a bad spot, and she'd known me all her life, and could I let her have a hundred dollars. I saw she was worried—

Q—Just tell us what she said and you said.

A—Well, that's all, I guess. I gave it to her. Oh, yes. She asked for cash. I said I didn't have any cash to spare, and it was past banking hours, so I'd give her a check. Then I made out a check, she said thanks, and that's all.

Q—Did Miss Wright tell you what she wanted the money for?

A—No, sir, and I didn't ask her. The check was placed in evidence. Judge Martin had been about to demand the deletion of all J.C.'s remarks until he turned the check over and saw what was written on the other side. Then he waved his hand magnanimously and declined to cross-examine.

Lola Wright was nervous as she took the oath, but her gaze was defiant. Prosecutor Bradford showed her the check in evidence.

"Miss Wright, what did you do with this check when you received it from J. C. Pettigrew?"

"I don't remember."

Foolish girl, thought Ellery: Don't make things worse by being difficult.

Bradford held the check up before her. "Miss Wright, perhaps this will refresh your memory. Read the endorsement on the back, please."

Lola swallowed. Then she said in a low voice: "James Haight."

At the defense table the accused seized that instant to smile. It was the weirdest smile imaginable. Then he sank into apathy again.

changed." Only 20 per cent are needed, according to the zoning ordinance. To make the decision official, Council voted to keep things as they are.

What brought the matter to a head was the refusal of an appeal by Mr. Frank when he asked for a permit to build coal pockets in the rear of his property, located in the residential area. No detailed discussion was taken up relative to the status of his business or whether he could store his trucks on his property.
